Boston Red Sox Open in St. Louis and Their Losing Streak Continues Detroits Also Get Another Setback, While Athletics Divide With the Naps.

The Highlanders moved on to Chicago yesterday and with Ford pitching they shut out the White Sox in a twirlers' duel. They tied the Detroits for third place, the Detroits being done up by the Washingtons. The Bostons dropped their sixth straight. The Browns shut them out. The Athletics didn't more than break even in Cleveland, but in view of what happened to Boston and Detroit their one defeat didn't matter much. The results:

finishes ever seen in the history of America's rowing championships marked the close of the national regatta here to-day William Mehrhoff of the Nassau Boat Club of New York won the single sculling chamionship and the Ottawas of Canada captured the international title in the senior eight oared race

The contestants in each race were cheered wildly by a great throng. In the singles Fred Shepherd of the Harlem Rowing Club of New York was the almost universal favorite, with Durando Miller of the New York Athletic Club as a second choice and Mehrhoff of the Nassaus backed by few under the impression that he could not last the full distance in the championships At the crack of the gun Mehrhoff got Miller quit at contest between New York's greatest sculbetween Mehrhoff and Shepherd, the latter in a stern chase which was cal-culated to discourage any ordinary athlete.

As the shells approached the finish Mehr-hoff was conceded a victor by all except Shepherd, who suddenly made a move about an eighth of a mile from the line and began to cut down the margin. Foot by foot he moved up on his rival until the shells were lapped and it appeared to the cheer-

Mehrhoff, who had rowed himself almost into insensibility meeting the rush of Shepherd, had just enough left to give one mighty stroke in the last yards and win the championship by a margin of less than six gun to flag and was characterized by a sustained sport by the Argonauts in the last quarter, when they drew up on their fellow countrymen, the Ottawas of Canada, and missed victory by a scant three-quarters of a length.

Mehrhoff was on the verge of collapse as the shells stopped, but soon recovered and together with Shapherd rowed back to the boathouse.

Offawas went out from the start and suclength ahead until the spurt started and the Argonauts drew up in a manner that promised to win. Further back in this race there was a good fight between the New York A. C. and the Vespers of Philadelphia, the Onakers getting the place by even a smaller margin than separated the two leading crews. The Potomacs of Washington were last, being unable to stand the terrific pace the Canadians set in their efforts to get away from each other.

The association singles, the third most important race of to-day, went to S. F. Gordon of he Vespers of Philadelphia, who got an early lead and left Fred Fuessell of the Harlems of New York and Butler of the Argonauts to contest for second place, which went to the New Yorker by a few feet.
